Course Description and Objectives:

MUCH 695 is a course for students who wish to explore some of the interfaces between two fundamental aspects of human culture and identity—music and gender. Certain basic qualities of gender very strongly resemble basic qualities of music—each is a kind of performance, yet each is intrinsically embodied. Starting from this fundamental tension-in-common, we will explore the binaries that constrain our thinking about gender, as well as the intersections of gender and music with sex, social class, and race, through their manifestations in a range of Western European and American musics.

For the first half of the semester, members of the class will read and discuss foundational texts from musicology & gender studies exploring the relationship between music, gender, and sexuality. Early in the semester, students will also become familiar with digital databases and collections useful for locating primary sources such as sheet music, concert programs, newspapers, advertisements, criticism, etc. During the second half of the semester, reading and listening assignments will continue, but students will focus on developing an individual research project. Research, methods, and analysis will be shared with classmates at various stages, and at the end of the semester, students will present their work and engage in peer editing of each other's projects.

Students who successfully complete MUCH 695 should be able to:

- Recognize vocabulary, styles, genres, forms, and individual works from our class units on various aspects of music and gender
- Think creatively about how gender & sexuality influences your twenty-first-century relationships with music
- demonstrate facility with resources for music history research
- frame a research question related to the course topic
- identify appropriate sources for exploring the question
- critically read the secondary literature related to your research question

- analyze primary sources to construct an argument that engages secondary literature
- communicate your ideas to classmates at various points in the research and writing process
- produce a final essay that might be usable for an undergraduate research journal/presentation or used as a writing sample for graduate school or job applications

Course Requirements

Any reading or listening assignment listed for a specific day should be completed prior to coming to class—please come to class prepared and ready to ask and answer questions. You are responsible for checking Moodle every day for listening/reading assignments, discussion questions, announced quizzes, and any possible updates/changes. Given the pace of this course, keeping up on all assigned reading and listening in advance of every class is essential. SUNY guidelines assume at least 2 hours of study time per hour of class time or credit. For this 3-credit class, which meets 3 hours/week, expect to spend at least 6 additional hours a week outside of class (studying, listening, reading). Please feel free to come to my office hours for guidance on how to organize your studying and reading time most effectively.

Reading/Listening Assignments

All additional readings and recordings for this course will be available to you through Moodle. Visit <https://moodle.potsdam.edu> for your course resources.

Readings and listening assignments are required, and should be completed prior to each class. For each class, log on to Moodle—each day’s module on Moodle will contain the exact assignment page numbers, and (if applicable) PDFs and links for each class.

It is your responsibility to make sure that you can access the class materials; please let me know as soon as possible if you are having any problems. I cannot troubleshoot issues involving your personal computer. Please understand that if you cannot access course materials through your own computer, you must work with computers on campus. The number to the Computing & Technology Services (CTS) helpdesk is 315-267-4444 or helpdesk@potsdam.edu

For additional help with your assignments, the Crane Music library has a vast variety of resources. The url <http://www.libraries.potsdam.edu/resources-subject/music.html> will take you to a page with several resources that will be useful, such as audio/visual resources and reference databases.

Course Evaluation

Grading will be based on attendance/participation, discussion leading and online commentary, a midterm essay, and a final research project (which has a number of internal steps).

Please note: This graduate course will be taught in conjunction with an undergraduate course (MUCH 495) on the same subject. While you will meet during the same class time, please understand that the expectation is that you will do graduate-level work in both quantity and quality. I will have different required word counts for you for major assignments (including the final project). Finally, on three occasions during the semester, I will meet with the graduate students as a separate group to conduct specially focused reading/discussion sessions. For these sessions, you will prepare one of the course readings in more detail and come ready to have a graduate-level discussion on it. You will be graded on your preparation and response during these 3 seminar sessions.

♦ Online Commentary	15%
♦ Class Attendance, Participation, Preparedness	10%
♦ Graduate Student Reading/Discussion Meetings	5%
♦ Take-home Midterm Exam/Essay (approx. Week 5/6)	10%
♦ Final Project	60%
• Initial Proposal + Bibliography—5%
• Abstract—5%
• Podcast—10%
• Rough Draft—7.5%
• Peer Review—5%
• Final Draft—20%
• Final Presentation—7.5%

Individual class sessions will combine lecture, listening, and discussion, overall MUCH 695 will only succeed based on the amount of effort that you invest in it. Our limited in-class time should focus on our group discussion of the concepts in the assigned reading and listening; it is imperative, therefore, that you have carefully read the assigned materials before coming to class and come prepared with questions and concerns. For selected classes, your listening journals will serve as a launching point for some of your discussion questions. You should always come to class having taken notes on the assigned materials and ready to respond and ask questions. I will assess your participation grade based on your preparation and thoughtful participation in class discussions. If participation in spoken class conversations is difficult for you—based on personality types, learning styles, language, etc—please come see me and we can find additional ways to make you feel more comfortable as you participate.

* Online commentary procedures:

- 1) 5%: You will be asked to serve as discussion leader twice during the semester. On those occasions, you will post (on Moodle) a comment and two questions based on the day's reading and listening. The comments must be posted by 12pm (noon) the day before the class in question in order to count towards your grade.
- 2) 5%: You will be expected to respond online to your peer's comments and questions throughout the semester. You must respond twelve times throughout the semester (this essentially means once per week, i.e. you can choose one class per week to respond to). A response from you will consist of at least 2 full sentences in response (you may write more). I will track these throughout the semester.

* Attendance procedures:

You receive points for attendance and participation in class—this includes being punctual and staying engaged until class is dismissed. You may miss four classes without penalty. You are welcome to come to office hours to discuss missed material. In fairness to all students, there are no automatic deadline extensions for students who miss a regular class meeting (regardless of reason for the absence). If you miss more than four classes, you will lost 5% from your participation grade. Each additional 2 unexcused absences (beyond the four classes you are allotted without penalty) will lose you a letter grade.

If you know that you will be missing class for a school-sponsored activity (such as an off-campus performance), you should inform me as soon as possible. While I may also receive a memo about your absence from the Dean's Office, it is ultimately your responsibility to check in with me about your absence before the scheduled event. You are always expected to make up work missed due to travel, but you and I will need to find specific accommodations for each absence (depending upon activities missed). Please note that any makeup deadlines will only be given as a result of medical emergency or extraordinary hardship.

Per New York State Law, any student with a conflict between an academic requirement and any religious observance should be given an alternative for meeting the academic requirement. If you have a conflict with a class meeting or exam date due to a religious observance, please let me know well in advance (at least two weeks). You will not be penalized for missing class material, but you will have to makeup your class material or take the exam at an alternate time. I will not reschedule any exams after the exam date has passed.

Course Policies

Office Hours / Emails

I will respond to emails in a timely manner (generally within 24 hours of receipt). I do not always have time to respond to emails over the weekend, so weekend emails may potentially only be answered on Monday morning. Please feel free to come to office hours to discuss papers and questions, or to talk through general problems or concerns. During the busy periods at midterm/end of semester, I suggest you schedule an appointment to maximize the use of your time. Please make sure to check your campus email regularly—I often send updates or class comments via email.

Note-taking/Course Materials/Slides

You should come to class with your own notes on the assigned reading and listening assignments for each class. I strongly encourage that you take notes during each class meeting, particularly on verbal content, points that emerge from class discussion, and musical concepts from scores and listening. If I present images and information on slides, I will post the slides on Moodle. Please do not record class lectures unless you have received permission to do so.

- Technology: I encourage you to use pen and paper to jot down notes for the most part, particularly when writing on printed music. You are welcome to use electronic devices to take notes or access readings, but be aware that you will have to skillfully manage your attention to both your device and classroom discussion—I reserve the right to ask you to keep all devices put up when we are having class discussions. Anyone who abuses the technology policy —texting during class is particularly frowned upon—may be asked to speak with me and revise their approach or access.

- Classroom conduct: Active participation in this class involves taking notes, contributing questions and commentary, and challenging each other to think more deeply. Indeed, critical engagement—which should include reasoned debate, critique, and questions—is one of the best ways to learn. It is essential, however, that we be considerate in the ways we conduct these discussions; have an open mind, respect for different viewpoints, and hone your ability to listen thoughtfully and compassionately to each other and the instructor. Anyone abusing this policy will be asked to meet with the instructor.

- Formatting and Writing Guidelines: I will provide you a wordcount for all assignment. As a matter of policy, the typical style required by many journals is double-spaced, 12-point Times New Roman font, and one-inch margins (although I will not be policing acceptable font alternatives). Footnotes and bibliographies should be in Chicago Manual of Style; if you have another citation style you would like to use, you would need to discuss this with me in advance. Assignments must be free of spelling, grammar, and punctuation errors. Minor problems will result in deductions; major writing issues may result in a request to redo the assignment. Continued problems with assignment redos may result in automatic deductions of one letter grade. For your writing assignments, you are strongly encouraged to make an appointment with the Writing Center. Writing Center director Jennifer Mitchell is happy to suggest specific writing tutors for Crane graduate students. If I identify significant problems with your writing style, I may request that you use the Writing Center resources to help improve your style. I am happy to read drafts.

Grading

All grades will be determined on the following scale:

4.0: 95-100	2.7: 82-84	1.3: 68-71
3.7: 92-94	2.3: 78-81	1.0: 65-67
3.3: 88-91	2.0: 75-77	0.0: 0-64
3.0: 85-87	1.7: 72-74

Please note that passing grade (in order to move on to the next class in the history sequence) is 75% or above.

Grade Appeals

If you have questions about a grade, please speak with me (in person) first. Please note that the Undergraduate Catalog, p. 45, includes the specific criteria upon which you are allowed to appeal a course grade. If we cannot come to an informal resolution, you would then complete a formal Grade Appeal Form and we would consider if additional resolution is necessary. Details about the specific steps and timelines for this process are located on pp. 45-46 of the Undergraduate Catalog.

Notes About Timeliness

Late Written Work

No late work will be accepted without penalty. Late written assignments will lose 5% for each day they are late. Assignments will not be accepted more than three days late. If you believe you will have difficulty meeting a particular deadline, you must talk with me at least three days in advance of the due date.

Accessibility

In order to fully include all students in this course, it is essential to provide reasonable accommodations or program modifications for anyone with a disability. Please let me know during the first week of classes if you need any accommodations in curriculum, instruction, or evaluation. For most test-taking accommodations, you should have a registration on file with Accommodative Services (<http://potsdam.edu/support/oas>), located in Sisson Hall Room 111. If you're already working with Accommodative Services, or have worked with them in previous semesters, please inform me immediately. Any test-taking accommodations or modifications require advance notice, so make sure to work out these details with me well in advance.

Academic Honesty

This class will strictly follow SUNY Potsdam's policies on academic integrity. Please consult the Student Conduct & Community Standards Academic Honor Code website (<http://www.potsdam.edu/studentlife/studentconduct/honorcode>) or pp. 35 & 36 of the Undergraduate Catalogue for more information regarding your responsibilities as a student. In general, academic misconduct includes acts in which a student seeks to claim credit for the work or efforts of another without authorization or citation. Examples include (but are not limited to):

1. Cutting and pasting text from the web without quotation marks or proper citation.
2. Paraphrasing from the web or written texts without crediting the source.
3. Using notes in an exam when such use is not allowed.
4. Using another person's ideas, words, or research and presenting it as one's own.

I encourage you to study together for exams, and to discuss class readings and listening with each other inside and outside of class. For tests or writing assignments, however, no consultation with other students is permitted. Using classmates' responses during the exam, consulting notes without permission, or disguising words written by others as your own undermines the academic community here at SUNY Potsdam. If you have any questions about this, please don't hesitate to ask me. For specific questions on intellectual property and proper citation techniques, advice is available both at SCCS and the Writing Center.

Cheating, plagiarism, fabrication, falsification and other academic honor code violations are taken very seriously. Any suspicious situations will be dealt with through proper judicial channels and may result in serious consequences. For more information about academic misconduct procedures, see the processes and procedures at <http://www.potsdam.edu/studentlife/studentconduct/codeofconduct>
